Learn how to keep safe online

While online, if you see, read or hear something you don't like, what should you do?

Tick the safe scenarios and cross the unsafe ones.

A school friend sends you an email asking for your phone number.
Someone you started chatting to online with asks for your address.
A friend asks for your school Internet password.
Someone you met online wants to meet you.
A person you're chatting with wants to know what you look like and asks for a photo.
You receive an email from a friend you play tennis with asking which school you go to.
You receive an email with this message. 'You are in the running to win money. Send us your name, address and phone number to go in the draw.'

BE SAFE: Even if you thought the scenario was safe, always show a trusted adult, like your parents or teacher, to get their permission before replying.
